WRITTEN DIRECT STATEMENT REGARDING DISTRIBUTION METHODOLOGIES OF MPAA-REPRESENTED PROGRAM SUPPLIERS FOR 2010-2013 CABLE ROYALTY YEARS

The Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. ("MPAA"), its member companies and other producers and/or distributors of syndicated series, movies, specials, and non-team sports broadcast by television stations who have agreed to representation by MPAA ("MPAA-represented Program Suppliers"),[1] in accordance with the procedural schedule set forth in Appendix A to the December 22, 2017 Order Consolidating Proceedings And Reinstating Case Schedule issued by the Copyright Royalty Judges ("Judges"), hereby submit their Written Direct Statement Regarding Distribution Methodologies ("WDS-D") for the 2010-2013 cable royalty years[2] in the consolidated

[1] Lists of MPAA-represented Program Suppliers for each of the cable royalty years at issue in this consolidated proceeding are included as Appendix A to the Written Direct Testimony of Jane Saunders.

[2] Concurrent herewith, MPAA is separately filing its Written Direct Statement Regarding Distribution Methodologies Of MPAA-Represented Program Suppliers For 2010-2013 Satellite Royalty Years in the above-captioned consolidated docket. Prior to the Judges' December 22, 2017 Order Consolidating Proceedings And Reinstating Case Schedule, MPAA had already prepared its Written Direct Statement Regarding Distribution Methodologies ("WDS-D") for the 2010-2013 satellite royalty years as a separate filing consistent with the procedural schedule set forth in Appendix C to the October 23, 2017 Ruling And Order Regarding Objections To Cable And Satellite Claims ("Claims Ruling").

2010-2013 Cable and Satellite Royalty Distribution Proceeding. MPAA is submitting this introductory memorandum in order to summarize the evidence they will present in the distribution phase of this proceeding, and to state the royalty shares of the Program Suppliers category that MPAA is seeking for the 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013 cable royalty funds ("2010-13 Funds").

I. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 9, 2015, the Judges issued an order formally consolidating royalty distribution proceedings regarding the 2010-13 Funds and sought written submissions from the parties in an effort to clarify the definitions of claims categories for purposes of this proceeding.[3] Thereafter, on November 25, 2015, the Judges adopted eight program categories for the allocation phase ("Agreed Categories") to which the Judges may approve an allocation of royalties for the 2010-13 Funds.[4] The Agreed Categories are as follows:

> "Canadian Claimants." All programs broadcast on Canadian television stations, except: (1) live telecasts of Major League Baseball, National Hockey League, and U.S. college team sports, and (2) programs owned by U.S. copyright owners.
> "Commercial Television Claimants." Programs produced by or for a U.S. commercial television station and broadcast only by that station during the calendar year in question, except those listed in subpart (3) of the Program Suppliers category.

[3] See Notice Of Participants, Notice Of Consolidation, And Order For Preliminary Action To Address Claims Categories at 2 (September 9, 2015).

[4] See Notice Of Participant Groups, Commencement Of Voluntary Negotiation Period (Allocation), And Scheduling Order at Exhibit A (November 25, 2015).

> "Devotional Claimants." Syndicated programs of a primarily religious theme, but not limited to programs produced by or for religious institutions.
> "Joint Sports Claimants." Live telecasts of professional and college team sports broadcast by U.S. and Canadian television stations, except programs in the Canadian Claimants category.
> "Music Claimants." Musical works performed during programs that are in the following categories: Program Suppliers, Joint Sports Claimants, Commercial Television Claimants, Public Television Claimants, Devotional Claimants, Canadian Claimants.
> "National Public Radio." All non-music programs that are broadcast on NPR Member Stations.
> "Program Suppliers." Syndicated series, specials, and movies, except those included in the Devotional Claimants category. Syndicated series and specials are defined as including (1) programs licensed to and broadcast by at least one U.S. commercial television station during the calendar year in question, (2) programs produced by or for a broadcast station that are broadcast by two or more U.S. television stations during the calendar year in question, and (3) programs produced by or for a U.S. commercial television station that are comprised predominantly of syndicated elements, such as music videos, cartoons, "PM Magazine," and locally-hosted movies.
> "Public Television Claimants." All programs broadcast on U.S. noncommercial educational television stations.[5]

The Judges further recognized that the Agreed Categories are intended to be "mutually exclusive," such that every program eligible to receive cable statutory license royalties in this proceeding falls within only one of the Agreed Categories.[6]

MPAA seeks, on behalf of its represented claimants, a share of the 2010-13 Funds that will be allocated to the Program Suppliers category in this proceeding. Additionally, by agreement, MPAA seeks a share of the 2010-13 Funds that, under MPAA's methodology discussed below, will be allocated to National Association of Broadcasters ("NAB"). On June 30, 2017, MPAA and NAB filed a Joint Notice of Transfer And Acceptance ("Notice") with the Judges. The Notice informed the Judges of NAB's transfer, and MPAA's acceptance, of NAB's claims within the Program Suppliers category, thus authorizing MPAA to assert claims for royalties for those transferred NAB claims. Accordingly, the two parties who are currently asserting entitlement to royalties allocated to the Program Suppliers' category are MPAA and Multigroup Claimants ("MC").[7] In this WDS-D, MPAA will set forth its testimony and evidence in support of distribution awards within the Program Suppliers category as between MPAA and MC.

On October 23, 2017, the Judges issued their Claims Ruling, which resolved all pending motions related to claims validity and categorization issues among the participants regarding the 2010-13 Funds. In the Claims Ruling the Judges (1) denied MC a resumption of validity as to the claims it purports to represent, (2) dismissed MC's claims on behalf of twenty different entities for one or more of the royalty years at issue in this proceeding, and (3) dismissed MC's claims for 906 specific programs.[8] The [7] On March 29, 2016, MC and Spanish Language Producers ("SLP") filed a Joint Notice Of Settlement Of Controversy stating that "any SLP claims have been transferred to and will be prosecuted by MC and such parties have reached a confidential agreement that completely resolves the claims of represented claimants within the Program Suppliers, Sports, and Devotional categories." See MC and SLP Joint Notice Of Settlement Of Controversy at 1 (March 29, 2016).

[8] See Claims Ruling at 5-13, 16-40, and Appendices A and B.

Judges directed the parties to "take care to ensure that their Written Direct Statements…reflect fully the rulings on allowance and disallowance of claims" set forth in the Claims Ruling.[9] Accordingly, MPAA has directed its witnesses to apply the decisions on claims validity set forth in the Claims Ruling in their Written Direct Testimonies presented herein as a part of MPAA's WDS-D.

II. SUMMARY OF MPAA CASE

The Judges must distribute royalties that cable system operators ("CSOs") paid to the Copyright Office for the privilege of distantly retransmitting broadcast stations pursuant to the statutory license set forth in Section 111 of the Copyright Act for the years 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013. The standard that the Judges and their predecessors have used for distributing Section 111 royalties in past proceedings is the "the relative marketplace value of the distant broadcast signal programming retransmitted by cable systems" during the royalty years at issue.[10] MPAA agrees that the Judges should distribute the 2010-13 Funds based on the relative market value standard.

MPAA has long maintained that the relative market value of distantly retransmitted programming is most clearly expressed through measurements of distant viewing because viewing is consumption. It is axiomatic that consumers subscribe to a cable system to watch the programming made available via their subscriptions. The more programming a subscriber watches, the happier the subscriber is, and the more likely he or she will continue to subscribe. Thus, a reasonable measure of the relative market value of a retransmitted program is the relative level of subscriber viewing of that program.

[9] See id. at 58.

[10] See 75 Fed. Reg. 57063, 57065 (September 17, 2010).

In each of the past Phase II proceedings involving the Program Suppliers category (now known as "Distribution Phase proceedings"), MPAA-represented claimants received the overwhelmingly largest share of the royalties attributable to the Program Suppliers category.[11] Most of these Phase II proceedings involved multiple Program Suppliers claimants. The awards to MPAA-represented claimants were well-justified: first, MPAA-represented claimants outnumbered other claimants within the Program Suppliers category; second, MPAA-represented claimants owned more titles than any other Program Suppliers claimant; third, MPAA-represented claimants' programs constituted, by far, the largest volume of programs (i.e., minutes of program air time) available to subscribers; and fourth, MPAA-represented claimants' programs had more viewing than those of any other claimants. Moreover, MPAA-represented claimants' programs, which cover the entire spectrum of program genres, belonged to small mom-and-pops as well as to large motion picture studios who supply the predominant share of programs on television. The foregoing elements also characterize the claims of MPAA-represented claimants for this Distribution Phase proceeding.

For the purpose of the distribution of the 2010-13 Funds, MPAA will offer a simple, direct and statistically sound methodological approach to the allocation of the royalties to MPAA and MC claimants: the best available measures of relative market value are (1) volume of programming available to distant subscribers, (2) viewing of such programs, and (3) the effect, if any, of such programs on subscriber growth. Taking these factors into account, and after adding to MPAA's claims, the NAB-claimed titles that have now been transferred to MPAA, MPAA-represented claimants should receive between 99.37% and 99.50% of the 2010-13 Funds allocated to the Program Suppliers category, depending on the royalty year at issue. The specific Program Suppliers royalty shares that MPAA is seeking in this proceeding for each of the 2010-13 Funds, for each royalty year, are set forth infra on page 10.

[11] MPAA Phase II awards by cable royalty year were 96.3% in 1979 (49 Fed. Reg. 20048 (May 11, 1984)), 96.9% in 1980 (48 Fed. Reg. 9552 (Mar. 7, 1983)), 96.9% in 1981 (49 Fed. Reg. 7845 (Mar. 2, 1984)), 97.5% in 1982 (49 Fed. Reg. 37653 (Sept. 24, 1984)), 98.2% in 1983 (51 Fed. Reg. 12792 (Apr. 15, 1986)), 98.475% in 1984 (52 Fed. Reg. 8408 (Mar. 17, 1987)), 99.175% in 1985 (53 Fed. Reg. 7132 (Mar. 4, 1988)), 98.5% in 1986 (54 Fed. Reg. 16148 (Apr. 21, 1989)), 99.788% in 1997 (66 Fed. Reg. 66433 (Dec. 26, 2001), subsequently vacated, 69 Fed. Reg. 23821 (Apr. 30, 2004)); 98.84% in 2000, 99.69% in 2001, 99.64% in 2002, and 99.77% in 2003 (78 Fed. Reg. 64984 (Oct. 30, 2013)).

III. DIRECT TESTIMONY SUBMITTED BY MPAA

MPAA will present the following witnesses, each of whom will sponsor his or her testimony and accompanying exhibits or appendices (copies of which are contained in Volume I of MPAA's WDS-D):

Jane V. Saunders, serves as Managing Director & Senior Vice-President, Rights Management Policy and Relations ("RMPR") at MPAA. Ms. Saunders oversees MPAA's RMPR department, which is responsible for copyright royalty policy as it relates to collective and statutory rights management both in the United States and worldwide on behalf of MPAA's members and other producers and distributors of protected works. Ms. Saunders will provide information regarding Program Suppliers' claims in this proceeding, including the MPAA-represented claimants, and both MPAA- and NAB-represented titles, that fell within the Program Suppliers category during 2010-13. Ms. Saunders will also describe some of her international experience in negotiating and collecting retransmission royalties on behalf of MPAA members and other producers and distributors, and the important role that viewing information plays in international royalty allocations and distributions.

Paul Lindstrom, was a Senior Vice President with Nielsen until his retirement on June 2, 2017. While at Nielsen, Mr. Lindstrom was responsible for research design and analysis as part of the Nielsen Media Analytics group. Mr. Lindstrom will provide information about the Nielsen viewing data on which MPAA relies in this proceeding, including his role in designing the custom analyses of viewing to distant cable households that Program Suppliers commissioned from Nielsen for 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013.

Jeffrey S. Gray, Ph.D., is the founder and President of Analytics Research Group, LLC. Relying on certain basic economic principles, Dr. Gray employs Nielsen data, multiple other data sources, and regression analyses to estimate the level of distant viewing to a random sample of stations carrying compensable works for MPAA, NAB, and MC for each of the royalty years at issue in this proceeding. Dr. Gray's economic analyses produce the relative market value of MPAA-, NAB-, and MC-claimed works for each of the 2010-13 Funds based on multiple factors, including volume, and distant viewership.

Jonda K. Martin, is the President and Owner of Cable Data Corporation ("CDC"), which collects, digitizes, and electronically stores the data contained in the cable operator statements of account ("SOAs") on file with the Copyright Office. Ms. Martin will provide an overview of CDC's operations and data collection methodologies.

She will also describe data reports that CDC generated and provided to MPAA and its witnesses in connection with this proceeding, and the county analyses for each of the 2010-13 cable royalty years that she performed and provided for Nielsen to use in connection with distant viewing analyses they provided for this proceeding.

IV. DESIGNATED PRIOR TESTIMONY

Pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 351.4(b)(2), Program Suppliers hereby designate for incorporation in their WDS-D the following witnesses' testimonies from the 2000-2003 Cable Phase II Distribution Proceeding, Docket No. 2008-2 CRB CD 2000-2003 (Phase II) and the 2004-2005 Phase I Cable Distribution Proceeding, Docket No. 2007-3 CRB CD 2004-2005, (copies of which are included in Volume II of Program Suppliers' WDS-D):

MPAA reserves the right to designate additional portions of the records in prior proceedings if, after examining the record designations of other parties, it appears that such additional portions are necessary for a complete and accurate understanding of the import of designated evidence.

V. MPAA'S PROGRAM SUPPLIERS' CABLE DISTRIBUTION CLAIMS

Based on the evidence submitted to the Judges in this proceeding as a part of this WDS-D, MPAA is seeking the following percentage shares of the 2010-13 Funds allocated to the Program Suppliers category:

Cable Royalty Year	MPAA[12]	MC
2010	99.37%	0.63%
2011	99.47%	0.53%
2012	99.45%	0.55%
2013	99.50%	0.50%

[12] The MPAA shares above include the shares of Program Suppliers royalties attributed to the NAB-claimed titles for each of the 2010-13 Funds, which have now been transferred to MPAA.

MPAA reserves the right to change their distribution claims in light of the Judges' rulings on pending claims-related motions, and the evidence presented by other claimants in this proceeding.

Respectfully submitted,

DIRECT TESTIMONY OF JANE V. SAUNDERS

I. BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

My name is Jane V. Saunders. I serve as Managing Director & Senior Vice President, Rights Management Policy and Relations ("RMPR"), at the Motion Picture Association of America ("MPAA"). Prior to joining MPAA in 1995, I was an attorney engaged in private practice for seven years in Atlanta, Georgia and the District of Columbia. Immediately prior to joining MPAA, I worked for three years as an associate attorney handling compulsory license matters, including participating in royalty distribution proceedings before the Copyright Royalty Tribunal. I received my baccalaureate degree from Dartmouth College and my law degree from Emory University. I am a member, with inactive status, of the Georgia State and District of Columbia Bar Associations. I am fluent in Spanish and French and have a working knowledge of German and Italian.

I represent MPAA and its member companies on the boards of various collective management organizations, including AGICOA,[1] where I sit on the Executive Board; the German collection society, GWFF USA; Danish collection societies, CAB and FilmKopi; and the Copyright Collective of Canada. I head MPAA's RMPR department which is responsible for copyright royalty policy as it relates to collective and statutory rights management both domestically and worldwide on behalf of MPAA's members and, in some cases, other producers and distributors of compensable works.

On the international front, my responsibilities include assisting in the development of policies aimed at protecting the rights of U.S. producers and copyright holders in the area of collective and statutory rights management and promoting best operational practices within rights management societies; advising MPAA member companies on aspects of U.S. and foreign copyright policy in the area of collective and statutory rights management; helping to formulate strategies to support individual management of rights; and managing relationships between MPAA members and collective rights management organizations ("CMOs"), the foreign collection societies which are responsible for the collection and administration of retransmission and other types of royalties.

In Europe, for example, I work to ensure that MPAA-represented U.S. producers receive their fair share of collectively managed retransmission and other royalties throughout Europe. To do so, I actively engage the CMOs through which our members claim royalties and participate in the development of best practices for distribution processes. Further, I represent the interests of MPAA's members in negotiation of agreements whereby they claim royalty shares and, in particular, assist the international cable retransmission royalty CMO, AGICOA, in the negotiation of agreements for collection of retransmission royalties and in the development of distribution rules and policies which apply to AGICOA activities throughout Europe.

In Canada, I am responsible for all of the operations of MPAA's retransmission royalty program via the Copyright Collective of Canada ("CCC"), including supervision of CCC staff, negotiations with retransmitters (i.e., cable and satellite companies) regarding setting rates and negotiating with the other collection society groups (i.e., claimants) regarding allocation of collected royalties.

In the U.S., I supervise all of MPAA's activities in connection with the administration of U.S. cable and satellite retransmission royalties (Sections 111 and 119 of the Copyright Act, respectively) for its represented claimants, including supervision of the royalty administration and enforcement of the compulsory licenses; supervision of MPAA employees; engagement of outside vendors; procurement of data; and supervision of outside counsel. In that regard, I manage a team who works closely with information technology contractors and with financial, legal and statistical professionals to provide fair and efficient distribution of royalties among our represented claimants.

II. PURPOSE OF TESTIMONY

First, I will describe the nature and extent of MPAA's claims in this proceeding, including the different types of programs that comprise our claim. I will also provide information regarding the programs claimed by the National Association of Broadcasters ("NAB") which have been transferred to MPAA in this proceeding. Second, I will discuss my international experience regarding the role of viewership as a measure of value for purposes of the distribution of retransmission royalties.

III. OVERVIEW OF MPAA'S CLAIM

Beginning with the first royalty distribution proceeding addressing the allocation of 1978 cable royalties, MPAA has been the de facto category representative of all Program Suppliers claimants in Phase I (now Allocation) proceedings.[2] In Distribution proceedings (formerly known as Phase II proceedings), MPAA represents those Program Suppliers who have agreed to representation by MPAA ("MPAA-represented Program Suppliers"). The [2] For purposes of this proceeding, the Copyright Royalty Judges ("Judges") have defined the Program Suppliers category as syndicated series, specials and movies, except those included in the Devotional Claimants category. See Notice of Participants Groups, Commencement of Voluntary Negotiation Period (Allocation), and Scheduling Order, Docket No. 14-CRB-0010-CD (2010-13) at Exhibit A (Nov. 25, 2015). The Judges have further defined syndicated series and specials as including (1) programs licensed to and broadcast by at least one U.S. commercial television station during the calendar year in question; (2) programs produced by or for a broadcast station that are broadcast by two or more U.S. television stations during the calendar year in question; and (3) programs produced by or for a U.S. commercial television station that are comprised predominately of syndicated elements, such as music videos, cartoons, "PM Magazine," and locally-hosted movies. See id.

lists of MPAA-represented Program Suppliers asserting claims to Section 111 royalties in this proceeding are set forth in Appendix A.

MPAA-represented Program Suppliers include not only the major studios, but also dozens of other copyright claimants including smaller producers and syndicators from both the U.S. and many parts of the world – all of whom have filed claims seeking a share of the pool for some or all of the 2010-13 cable royalty years. MPAA directly represented approximately 100 claimants in each royalty year at issue. Because many of these MPAA-represented claimants filed joint claims, have multiple subsidiaries, and include royalty collection agents and CMOs, MPAA directly and indirectly represents thousands of claimants per royalty year (for the 2010-13 cable royalty years, MPAA's Petitions to Participate included between 6,200 and 9,400 claimants per royalty year). Appendix A is limited to only the particular MPAA-represented Program Suppliers who have confirmed their authority to collect retransmission royalties for programming that is compensable in this proceeding. This list includes between 238 and 543 MPAA-represented claimants per royalty year.

MPAA-represented programs fit generally under the umbrella of series, movies, specials, and non-team sports. The breadth of those programs is quite remarkable. The programs include game shows, sitcoms, news magazines, non-team sporting events, interview shows, sports shows and sporting events, awards shows, health and fitness shows, and animal shows, as well as similar works in Spanish language. The following are examples of our programs:

- Animated series and sitcoms, such as: FRIENDS (Warner Bros. Entertainment, Inc.), MODERN FAMILY (Fox Entertainment Group, Inc.), and THE SIMPSONS (Fox Entertainment Group, Inc.).

- Dramatic Series, such as: THE GOOD WIFE (CBS Studios, Inc.), LOST (Disney ABC Domestic Television), and GRIMM (NBC Universal, Inc.).
- Movies, such as: X-MEN: THE LAST STAND (Fox Entertainment Group, Inc.), NO COUNTRY FOR OLD MEN (Miramax Film NY, LLC) and RUNAWAY BRIDE (Paramount Pictures Corporation).
- Game shows, such as: FAMILY FEUD (Fremantlemedia North America, Inc.), WHEEL OF FORTUNE (Califon Productions, Inc.) and JEOPARDY! (Jeopardy Productions, Inc.).
- Non-Team Sports Events, Sports shows and sports-related programs, such as: 2011 WIMBLEDON CHAMPIONSHIPS (IMG, Inc.), 2011 BRITISH OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP (IMG, Inc.), PISTONS WEEKLY (National Basketball Association), THIS WEEK IN BASEBALL (Major League Baseball Properties, Inc.), NASCAR RACING (NASCAR Media Group), 2010 AMERICAN SKI CLASSIC (Jalbert Productions, Inc.) and WWE FRIDAY NIGHT SMACKDOWN! (World Wrestling Entertainment, Inc.).
- Awards shows and pageants, such as: AMERICAN LATINO AWARDS (Latination, LLC), 68TH ANNUAL GOLDEN GLOBE AWARDS (dick clark productions, inc.), and THE 65TH ANNUAL TONY AWARDS (The Fremantle Corporation).
- News shows, such as: MCLAUGHLIN GROUP (Oliver Productions, Inc.) and WALL STREET JOURNAL REPORT WITH MARIA BARTIROMO (NBC Universal, Inc.).
- Reality shows, such as: AMERICAN IDOL (Fremantlemedia North America, Inc.), SURVIVOR: HEROES VS. VILLAINS (CBS Broadcasting, Inc.), and THE BACHELORETTE (Warner Bros. Entertainment, Inc.).

- Animal shows, such as: WILD ABOUT ANIMALS (Steve Rotfeld Productions, Inc.), ANIMAL RESCUE (Telco Productions, Inc.), and INCREDIBLE DOG CHALLENGE (Eclipse Television, LLC).
- Interview and talk shows, such as: THE OPRAH WINFREY SHOW (CBS Studios, Inc.) and THE ELLEN DEGENERES SHOW (Warner Bros. Entertainment, Inc.).

All of these and many more types of programs fall within the MPAA-represented Program Suppliers' claim. Relative to Distribution proceedings, MPAA-represented Program Suppliers not only have the largest number of programs, they also have an extremely diverse array of programs. An alphabetical list of all the program titles that MPAA-represented Program Suppliers are claiming in this proceeding for each royalty year is attached to my testimony as Appendix B. Taken together, this list includes an average of approximately 2,600 unique titles for each of the four royalty years in question, for a total of more than 10,000 unique MPAA-claimed titles for the four year period.

IV. MPAA'S CLAIM AND TITLE VERIFICATION PROCESSES

MPAA has developed and maintains internal standards to ensure that only those individuals or entities who are truly entitled to claim retransmission royalties are able to assert a claim for those royalties through MPAA. To be a MPAA-represented claimant, a rights-holder must satisfy the following requirements: (1) file a timely claim for retransmission royalties each year with the Copyright Office; (2) provide MPAA with an "as-filed" copy of that claim, demonstrating that it was submitted to the Office in a timely manner; and (3) have a valid representation agreement with MPAA, or be a party to a joint claim filed by an agent represented by MPAA. All of the MPAA-represented claimants listed on Appendix A to my testimony satisfied these requirements.

Since the last proceeding in which I appeared before the Judges, MPAA has developed an electronic Royalty Management System ("RMS") that provides MPAA with an efficient means of managing its royalty distribution process, in order to more efficiently and accurately track claimed works and identify the particular program titles for which our claimants are entitled to claim Section 111 royalties. The list of MPAA-represented claimants' titles in Appendix B of my testimony were all subject to MPAA's internal royalty distribution processes.

On June 30, 2017, MPAA and NAB filed a Joint Notice of Transfer And Acceptance ("Notice") with the Judges. The Notice informed the Judges that NAB has transferred its claims within the Program Suppliers category to MPAA, and that MPAA is authorized to assert claims for royalties for those transferred NAB claims. The list of the transferred NAB-claimed titles is attached to my testimony as Appendix C.

V. VIEWING AND MARKET VALUE

I understand that the standard for allocation of royalties in this proceeding is the relative market value of programs. In their Phase II distribution decision regarding the distribution of the 2000-2003 cable royalties, the Judges concluded:

> [V]iewership can be a reasonable and directly measurable metric for calculating relative market value in cable distribution proceedings. Indeed, the Judges conclude that viewership is the initial and predominant heuristic that a hypothetical CSO would consider in determining whether to acquire a bundle of programs for distant retransmission, subject to marginal bundling adjustments needed to maximize subscribership.

Distribution of the 2000, 2001, 2002, and 2003 Cable Royalty Funds, 78 Fed. Reg. 64984, 64996 (Oct. 30, 2013). I think the Judges might find it useful that my international experience working with retransmission systems, including in Europe and in Canada, confirms that viewing of programs is the predominant metric used to distribute retransmission royalties paid by cable and satellite operators to producers, such as the MPAA members.

For example, Canada has a compulsory license system quite similar to that in the U.S. In that system, nine collective societies (the Canadian equivalent of claimant groups), each representing a category of rights owners, claim royalties paid by retransmitters under the compulsory license for the distant retransmission of audiovisual works. Viewing is the metric relied upon by the Canadian Copyright Board ("CCB"), a body comparable in mission to the Judges, to allocate shares of total royalties paid by retransmitters among the Canadian collectives.[3] To that end, one or more of the claiming collective societies, which represent the rights holders, submit individually or jointly (depending on the royalty year period in question) viewing studies to the CCB. These studies are based upon viewing data for broadcast events during a given royalty year, obtained through a monitoring organization called BBM Canada, and other metrics to winnow out distant subscriber viewing of the various audiovisual works claimed by each collective. The CCB has relied on these viewing studies to allocate the collected royalties for many years.

Thank you for the opportunity to present the information in this testimony. I hope it will be helpful in the Judges' deliberations.

[3] See Retransmission of Distant Radio and Television Signals, CCB Decision, File 1989-1, at p. 57 (October 2, 1990) ("The cable industry itself insists that its business is to offer variety and choice of programming. There is, however, no measure of the value of individual programs to a cable operator; it is not possible to determine, for example, how much a cable operator would pay for a program that has twice the number of viewers as another. But a cable operator, wishing to attract and keep subscribers, would make choices consistent with the preferences of those subscribers. Accordingly, the Board finds that the next best method of determining the value of programs to a cable operator is the extent to which subscribers watch the programs that are available."); id. at p. 58 ("Whatever its imperfections, the Board concludes that the viewing approach is the best means available for establishing the different values of different programs."); see also Retransmission of Distant Radio and Television Signals, CCB Decision, File 1991-10, at p. 191 (January 14, 1993) ("The Board also remains of the opinion that, within the respective pools, viewing provides the best method of allocating the royalties collected, so long as the data documenting viewing is adequate.").

DECLARATION OF JANE V. SAUNDERS

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing testimony is true and correct, and of my personal knowledge.

DIRECT TESTIMONY OF PAUL LINDSTROM

2010-2013 CABLE ROYALTY YEARS

DECEMBER 29, 2017

TESTIMONY OF PAUL B. LINDSTROM

My name is Paul Lindstrom. Until my retirement on June 2, 2017, I worked for Nielsen, most recently serving as a Senior Vice President. During my time at Nielsen I was responsible for research design and analysis as a part of the Nielsen Media Analytics group. Nielsen is a global leader in information services for the media and entertainment industries. Nielsen serves the information and marketing needs of television and radio broadcasters, cable networks, advertisers, agencies, media planners, music companies, publishers, motion-picture studios, distributors and exhibitors, and the Internet industry.

The Nielsen name is synonymous with television ratings. Ratings are the percent of the universe of U.S. households tuned to a TV program during the average minute or quarter-hour. Nielsen ratings provide an estimate of the U.S. television audience size and are a barometer for viewing choices and preferences. Viewing information is important to broadcast networks, local and national syndicated programs, local cable system operators, multi-system cable operators (MSOs), and satellite carriers.

As more local cable ad sellers sell local advertising time on cable channels, they need an agreed "currency" in order to maximize the value of their advertising time. Nielsen ratings offer that currency. Nielsen's charter as an independent measurement service is to provide both the buyer and seller of time with unbiased estimates of viewing behavior.

I. BACKGROUND AND EXPERIENCE

Prior to my retirement, I worked for Nielsen for thirty-eight years. I spent the majority of that time designing custom research with a particular focus on new television viewing sources and audience measurement of new services that might compete with television. These have included cable television, pay-TV, satellite services, over-the-air subscription television, VCRs, PCs, on-line services, the Internet, DVDs, cinema, and most recently, place-based and location-based digital networks. I was responsible for national custom research and custom research for local cable. I worked with clients to determine the best methodologies to answer their audience research questions. In the television area, these methods can involve either the analysis of existing databases of previously collected meter data, local television diary samples, or the development of new databases through the use of new single-client sponsored data collections.

Through the years I have worked on projects as varied as the pre-launch concept tests for ESPN, The Weather Channel and DirecTV, the design of Nielsen's Syndicated Pay Cable, VCR Usage, Syndicated Satellite and Home Technology Reports,[1] the CommerceNet Study of Internet Usage, the Nielsen Cinema Audience Report, and Nielsen On Location Media. I have been involved in all of the studies that the Motion Picture Association of America ("MPAA") and MPAA-represented Program Suppliers ("Program Suppliers") have directed Nielsen to conduct for proceedings before the Copyright Royalty Tribunal, the Copyright Arbitration Royalty

[1] Nielsen's Syndicated Satellite Report was the first study to utilize diary data to examine satellite viewing. The Home Technology Report is a trending study which has now produced estimates of the growth of new technologies over the last 20 years.

Panel, and the Copyright Royalty Judges since 1980. Also, I have testified before those bodies.

II. PURPOSE OF TESTIMONY

The purpose of my testimony is to provide an overview of Nielsen's sampling process and method for generating television ratings, and to explain the type of Nielsen data on which MPAA is relying in this proceeding.

III. SAMPLING AND TV RATINGS

The Nielsen rating you may see reported in newspapers or magazines is simply a statistical estimate of the number of homes tuned to a program. For example, a rating of 5 for a network television program means that 5% of the estimated U.S. television homes at the time of measurement are estimated to have been tuned in to that program at any point in time.

Above, I describe a rating as a "statistical estimate." Ratings are based, not on a count of all television households, but on the count within a sample of television households selected from all television households. The sample results are then projected to national totals. We also sometimes use the phrase "share" to quantify audience viewing levels. "Share" is an estimate of the households tuned to a particular channel or program. In other words, a rating measures what percentage of the universe of television households tuned in to a program, while a share measures what percentage of the number of television households in use are tuned in to any particular channel or program.

IV. NIELSEN DATA USED IN THIS PROCEEDING

During 2010-2013, Nielsen utilized meters as its basic data collection instrument. A meter is an electronic device attached to a television set in a particular household that detects the channel to which the television is being tuned. The data from these meters are then converted into household ratings. Household meter data was collected year-round in Nielsen's metered markets during 2010-2013.

MPAA contacted Nielsen and sought to obtain custom analyses of national household metered viewing data to cable distant households for the 2010-2013 royalty years. Accordingly, Nielsen designed, for MPAA, custom analyses of national household metered viewing data for each of the 2010-2013 years. I understand that Dr. Jeffrey Gray makes use of Nielsen's custom analyses in his economic analysis.

Our team of professionals designed custom analyses of Nielsen national household metered viewing data for 2010-2013 which estimate actual distant viewing by cable households. The methodology for our custom analyses, in brief, is as follows:

1) Dr. Gray supplied Nielsen with a list of his sample stations for each of the 2010-2013 cable royalty years. I understand that Dr. Gray relied on data from Cable Data Corporation ("CDC") in order to select the stations in his samples for each year.

2) Based on county analyses it performed, CDC provided Nielsen with the identity of the counties considered local to each station in Dr. Gray's samples.

3) For the 2010-2013 cable custom analyses, Nielsen eliminated all non-cable viewing of programs for Dr. Gray's sample stations. Further, it separated all viewing to each station into two categories—viewing that occurred within the station's local area (as determined by CDC's county analyses) and viewing that occurred outside the station's local area. Nielsen then provided a report to Dr. Gray separately identifying both local viewing and distant viewing among cable households for the stations in Dr. Gray's 2010-2013 samples. This was reported in the form of quarter hours of viewing by households.

V. "ZERO VIEWING" INSTANCES

One concern raised in past Phase II proceedings, and which may be raised in the allocation phase of this proceeding, is the so-called "zero viewing" instances that appear in Nielsen's custom analysis of national household metered viewing data. The appearance of these "zero viewing" instances is consistent with what I would expect to find in a custom analysis of viewing to distant signals by cable subscribers. This is because the amount of actual viewing minutes to certain distant signals is very small. Where the viewing minutes to particular distant signal programs were so small as to be statistically insignificant, Nielsen's custom analysis would assign a zero viewing value.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify in this proceeding.

I. QUALIFICATIONS

1. I, Jeffrey Gray, am an economist and President of Analytics Research Group, LLC ("ARG"). ARG provides expert analysis concerning economic, statistical and data issues.

2. I received training in economics and statistics at the University of Pennsylvania, where I earned a Ph.D. in economics. In 1991, I was appointed to a one-year position on the staff of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, where I concentrated on the economic impact of government policies and regulation. From 1993 to 1997, I served on the faculty of the University of Illinois, where I taught graduate and undergraduate courses covering survey techniques, demand analysis, labor economics, and statistics. My research has been published in some of the top peer-reviewed journals in the economics profession, including The American Economic Review. I have received grants to pursue my research from the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the Research Board of the University of Illinois. I have presented my research findings before a variety of seminars at universities, meetings of professional societies and conferences on specialized topics in the United States and abroad. Throughout my professional career, I have been asked to serve as a referee for leading economics journals, such as The American Economic Review and the Review of Economics and Statistics, concerning the appropriate application of economics and statistics.

3. I have served as a consultant for companies, law firms, and government agencies on a variety of economic and statistical issues related to antitrust, copyright and patent infringement, and complex commercial disputes. My consulting work has included analyzing economic markets as well as valuing copyrighted material and assessing efficient price and advertising levels. I have been engaged by cable system operators ("CSOs") to analyze the content and viewership of certain channels and by music performance rights owners to determine the economic value of the right to perform copyrighted music. I have provided expert testimony before the Copyright Royalty Judges ("Judges"), as well as in state, federal and international courts, and have presented my research methodology and analytical findings before the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Texas Commissioner of Insurance, and the New York and Massachusetts State Offices of the Attorney General.

4. My curriculum vitae, which includes a list of my publications in the last ten years, and a list of cases in which I have testified in the last four years, is attached as Appendix A. This report is based upon information currently available to me; I reserve the right to supplement this report should additional information be made available.

II. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

5. CSOs and satellite carriers are both retransmitters of programming who face the same tasks of selecting and evaluating programming to retransmit. They face the same economic motivations in attempting to attract and retain subscribers. Thus, my analysis in this testimony is very similar to my analysis in my testimony in the 2010-2013 satellite royalty distribution proceeding, the principal difference being that retransmitted network programs are compensable for satellite retransmission purposes while they are not for cable.

6. I have received lists of program titles claimed by the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. ("MPAA") and Multigroup Claimants ("MC") within the Program Suppliers category for this distribution proceeding that were exchanged by the parties as a part of the preliminary claims-related discovery ordered by the Judges in this proceeding.[1]

7. Programming belonging to the claimants represented by MPAA consists of thousands of unique programs, many retransmitted multiple times, over the years 2010 to 2013. These programs represented millions of valuable programming minutes retransmitted by CSOs each year. The number of retransmitted minutes provides a rough measure of the relative economic value of programming because it provides a quantification of CSO purchases, though in a regulated setting.

8. Ultimately, however, programming is valuable only insofar as it is valued by CSO subscribers. The most direct and reasonable approach to measuring the extent to which CSO subscribers value programming is viewership. Program viewership therefore provides a reliable measure of program market value. Relying upon multiple data

[1] See Order For Further Proceedings at 1-3 (March 14, 2016); Order Regarding Discovery (July 21, 2016); and, Ruling and Order Regarding Objections to Cable and Satellite Claims (October 23, 2017). I also received a list of program titles within the Program Suppliers category claimed by National Association of Broadcasters ("NAB"). However, on June 30, 2017, MPAA and NAB filed a Joint Notice of Transfer And Acceptance ("Joint Notice") with the Judges, which informed the Judges of NAB's transfer, and MPAA's acceptance, of NAB's claims within the Program Suppliers category, thus authorizing MPAA to assert claims for royalties for those transferred NAB claims. Accordingly, I have assigned calculations of the economic value of NAB's claims, and ultimately royalty shares, to MPAA.

sources and regression analysis, it is possible to estimate viewing minutes of programs on distantly retransmitted signals.

9. I calculated all shares of total program volume (i.e., based on minutes of airtime) and shares of program viewing based on a random selection of distant signal channels each year from 2010 to 2013. Based on my methodology, I find:

- MPAA-represented compensable programs accounted for 97.83%-98.91% of total program volume in the Program Suppliers category over the years 2010-2013.
- MPAA-represented compensable programs accounted for 99.37%-99.50% of total program viewing in the Program Suppliers category over the years 2010-2013.

10. Because viewership share is an economically sound measure of relative market value, each party's viewership shares correspond to reasonable and reliable royalty shares.

III. BACKGROUND AND OVERVIEW OF ROYALTY ALLOCATION PROCESS

11. I understand that the purpose of this phase of the proceeding is to determine distribution of the shares of the 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013 cable royalty funds ("2010-2013 Cable Royalties") paid by CSOs under the statutory (compulsory) license established by Section 111 of the Copyright Act ("Section 111"), within the programming categories established by the Judges, including the Program Suppliers category.[2] This testimony addresses the distribution of the 2010-2013 Cable Royalties

[2] The Program Suppliers category is comprised of producers and/or distributors of syndicated series, movies, specials, and non-team sports, excluding devotional programs. Syndicated series, movies, and specials are defined for cable compulsory license royalty purposes as including (1) programs licensed to that will be allocated to the Program Suppliers category among claimants represented by MC and claimants represented by MPAA.

12. Compulsory licenses allow CSOs to retransmit broadcast television signals out-of-market (i.e., on a distant basis) without the need to negotiate individual private license agreements with the multitude of copyright owners whose programs air on those signals. Economists refer to the time and expense associated with negotiating such private license agreements as transaction costs. Section 111 effectively eliminates the transaction costs that would occur in a market without the compulsory license and sets the rates for the compulsory license fees paid by the CSOs. These statutorily-set fees are subject to periodic adjustments.[3] The licensing fees which CSOs pay to the Copyright Office are based primarily on the number and type of distant stations each CSO chooses to carry.[4] After collecting the royalty payments, the Copyright Office distributes them among and broadcast by at least one U.S. commercial television station during the calendar year in question, (2) programs produced by or for a broadcast station that are broadcast by two or more U.S. television stations during the calendar year in question, and (3) programs produced by or for a U.S. commercial television station that are comprised predominately of syndicated elements. See Notice of Participant Groups, Commencement of Voluntary Negotiation Period (Allocation), and Scheduling at Exhibit A (November 25, 2015) ("Notice"). Examples of Program Suppliers programs at issue in this proceeding include Judge Judy, Entertainment Tonight, Wheel of Fortune, Legally Blonde, Seinfeld, NASCAR Racing, and coaches' shows. A list of MPAA-represented compensable programming is attached to the Direct Testimony of Jane V. Saunders as Appendix B.

[3] The periodic adjustments to the royalty fee rates were initially made by the Copyright Royalty Tribunal ("CRT"). Following abolition of the CRT, the adjustments were overseen by Copyright Arbitration Royalty Panels ("CARPs") appointed by the Librarian of Congress. The CARPs were subsequently replaced by the current system of Judges.

[4] The compulsory license fee for CSOs was based upon the number of "distant signal equivalents" ("DSEs") that a cable system imported, valuing a distant independent station as one DSE and a network-affiliated station or educational station as 1/4 DSE. In general, the number of DSEs carried by a CSO is multiplied by a DSE rate to establish the percentage of their gross revenues charged for importing distant television signals.

eligible copyright owners of compensable programs aired on the distant signals (or their representatives),[5] either by agreement among the claimants, or pursuant to the determination in a cable royalty distribution proceeding held before the Judges.

13. The CRT decided in 1980 to conduct its distribution proceeding in two phases. In Phase I (now known as the Allocation Phase), the decisionmakers allocated royalties among broad program categories of self-organized claimants.[6] In Phase II (now known as the Distribution Phase), the decisionmakers divided the royalties among individual claimants or their representatives within each of those broad program categories. This Distribution Phase report calculates proposed royalty shares of the 2010-2013 Cable Royalties to be distributed within the Program Suppliers category.

IV. ECONOMIC VALUE OF PROGRAMMING: RELATIVE MARKET VALUE DEPENDS ON VIEWERSHIP

14. The criterion for dividing the annual royalty pools among claimants is the "relative market value" of the copyrighted programs.[7]

[5] Eligible compensable programs are non-network broadcast programs aired on simultaneously retransmitted distant signals during the 2010-2013 cable royalty years.

[6] Historically, for cable Phase I Proceedings there have been eight broad categories of programming: (1) Program Suppliers; (2) Joint Sports Claimants ("JSC"); (3) Commercial Television Claimants ("Commercial Television""); (4) Public Television Claimants ("Public Television"); (5) Devotional Claimants ("Devotionals"); (6) Canadian Claimants Group ("Canadian Claimants"); (7) Music Claimants; and (8) National Public Radio ("NPR"). The Judges adopted these eight categories of programming for this proceeding as well. See Notice at Exhibit A.

[7] See 78 Fed. Reg. 64984, 64991 (October 30, 2013); 75 Fed. Reg. 57063, 57065 (September 17, 2010).

A. Application of the Relative Market Value Standard

15. Relative market value corresponds to the price at which the right to retransmit a program carried on a distant broadcast signal would change hands between a willing buyer (a CSO) and a willing seller (a copyright owner), neither being under any compulsion to buy or to sell and both having reasonable knowledge of relevant facts.[8] The "willing buyer" in this hypothetical negotiation is the CSO because it chooses which bundles of programs – distant broadcast signals – to retransmit on a distant basis. CSOs offer bundled distant broadcast signals, cable channels, local broadcast channels and pay-per-view channels in different packages to existing and potential subscribers at varying prices. While CSOs base their channel and carriage bundling decisions on attracting and retaining subscribers, other cost considerations factor into their decisions regarding which distant channels to retransmit and how to bundle them.[9]

16. CSOs do not offer individual programs on broadcast stations to their subscribers. Instead, they offer an array of different bundles of stations, or "tiers," as well as

[8] This definition is consistent with the definition of fair market value written by the U.S. Supreme Court: "The fair market value is the price at which the property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither being under any compulsion to buy or to sell and both having reasonable knowledge of relevant facts." United States v. Cartwright, 411 U. S. 546, 93 S. Ct. 1713, 1716-17 (1973).

[9] As the Judges have recognized, "[t]he rationale for the cable operator's decision concerning which channels to group in any tier offering and at what price, may depend not only on the impact on direct subscriber revenues, but also on such factors as advertising revenues associated with cable network channels, the relative license fee costs of various cable network channels, physical capacity constraints on the number of channels that can be transmitted over a particular cable system and even the direct ownership interests of the cable system in programming content on a given cable network." 75 Fed. Reg. at 57066. Thus, "the hypothetical CSO would (i) utilize viewership principally as a heuristic to estimate how the addition of any given program might change the CSO's subscriber revenue, (ii) attempt to factor in the economics of various bundles; and (iii) pay for a program license (or eschew purchasing that license) based on that analysis." 78 Fed. Reg. at 64993.

promotional packages, to attract and retain their subscribers. However, little information is available regarding the pricing and packaging done by specific CSOs or the competing offerings available to potential subscribers of a particular cable system. Further, direct data are not available to model and analyze why consumers choose to subscribe, or continue to subscribe to a particular cable system. Since direct data are not available to model consumers' subscription decisions, it follows that sufficient data are unavailable to properly model CSOs' buying decisions, including that of distantly retransmitted programming, in their efforts to attract and retain customers.

17. It is axiomatic that consumers subscribe to a CSO to watch the programming made available via their subscriptions. The more programming a subscriber watches, the happier the subscriber is, and the more likely she will continue to subscribe, all else equal.[10] Therefore, a measure of the happiness or "utility" an individual subscriber gets from a specific program is the number of minutes that subscriber spends viewing the program offered to him or her by the CSO. A measure of the utility all subscribers get, in total, from a specific program is the total level of subscriber viewing of the program. Thus, even though CSOs are the buyers of the programming bundles, a reasonable measure of the relative market value of a retransmitted program is the relative level of subscriber viewing of that program. The higher the subscriber viewing, all else equal, the greater the subscribers' utility and the greater the CSOs' retention of subscribers.

[10] Economists refer to this axiom underlying consumer preferences as the axiom of "non-satiation." See, Economics and consumer behavior, Angus Deaton and John Muellbauer, 1980, p.28.

18. Thus, the relative market value of an individual program ultimately depends upon the consumption of the programming as measured by its level of viewing by subscribers. As explained by actual copyright owners, audience size – as measured by viewership – is central when making licensing deals with broadcast stations and cable networks in the world outside the compulsory licensing scheme.[11] Moreover, in an attempt to attract and retain customers, CSOs want to carry stations with high viewership programming such as off-network syndicated television series that originally attracted a loyal following in their network runs and continue to do so in syndication.[12] They also desire to carry stations with high viewership programming, such as first-run syndicated programs that they believe will garner satisfactory audience levels.[13]

19. Since this proceeding involves allocating fixed royalty pools as part of a compulsory licensing scheme, it is appropriate to consider pertinent information concerning the relative economic value of programming, namely, program consumption as measured by actual program viewing. Purposefully ignoring estimates of actual viewing or ratings could lead to individual copyright owners, as well as categories of copyright owner representatives, of valuable programming receiving disproportionately small royalty awards compared to the relative market value of their copyrighted programming.

B. Measuring Relative Market Value: Volume and Viewership

20. CSOs bundle distant signal channels, together with other channel options, to meet subscriber preferences. Subscriber preferences are revealed by which distant stations and programs they choose to watch. Below, I discuss two metrics of relative economic value of programming: programming volume and programming viewership.

1. Volume

21. Holding costs constant, CSOs will choose to carry distant signals with programming that will attract and retain as many subscribers as possible. In theory, the rational (i.e., economic-optimizing) CSO will choose to carry distant signals with the most preferred programming airing at the most preferred times. The total volume of minutes of programming retransmitted by CSOs effectively represents the volume of programming purchased by the CSOs, albeit in a regulated setting. Therefore, total program volume represents rational CSOs' choices and provides a measure of the relative economic value of the programming to the CSOs.

22. While total program volume provides useful information concerning the relative value of programming to CSOs, that measure alone is not sufficient. In general, the value of programs to the CSO and their subscribers may differ depending on the time slot during which the programs are aired. A 30-minute program aired during primetime might be more valuable to CSOs and their subscribers than an hour-long program shown in the middle of the night. Moreover, programs of identical duration shown at the same time of day may have very different values to CSOs and their subscribers. That is, programming volume alone does not convey a complete picture of the relative value of the programs. The reason volume alone is an insufficient measure of value is it ignores audience size.

2. Viewership

23. Audience size, which is determined through program viewership, is a primary interest of programmers and therefore the most direct measure of a program's relative value.[14] From the CSO's perspective, the more a program attracts subscribers to watch and to keep watching, the more valuable the program is to the CSO's net-revenue maximizing goal of retaining and growing subscriber count. From the subscriber's perspective, relatively low viewership of a given program signifies relatively low valuation of that program. Absent the bundling of programs, economic theory implies that a program with no viewership will most likely not continue to be carried.[15]

24. Program viewership as a measure of relative market value is consistent with the economic theory of revealed preference.[16] In the present context, it means a CSO's willingness to pay for a particular program, or the station that airs the program, is a function of the programming's contribution to the cable system's ability to attract and retain subscribers and thereby maximize net revenue. Indeed, cable networks routinely analyze viewing levels because they understand that this measure is the best available indicator of what attracts and retains subscribers.

[15] See, generally, Economics and consumer behavior, Angus Deaton and John Muellbauer, 1980.

[16] Id., p. 51-53.

25. Consistent with the economic arguments described above, I analyze programming volume and viewing to determine relative market value of individual programming within the Program Suppliers category.

26. My estimation approach to determine the relative market value of MPAA and MC compensable programming is consistent with the economic arguments described above. I apply a two-step approach:

- First, I calculate measures of the relative volume of each party's claimed programming. This provides good, but imperfect, indicators of the relative value of the sets of programs at issue in this proceeding.
- Second, I calculate the relative viewership of each party's claimed programming. This is done on a program-by-program basis, then aggregated up to the representative claimant groups. As described above, given the available data, this is the most direct measure of relative value: if costs are deemed constant, higher subscriber viewership suggests higher relative market value of the programming.

C. Data Relied Upon to Measure Relative Market Value of Programming

27. I rely upon Nielsen viewing data, Gracenote, Inc. ("Gracenote") [17] programming data, and Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission ("CRTC") program logs, to study the volume and viewing information of compensable programs from 2010 through 2013. Also, I rely upon Cable Data Corporation ("CDC") carriage data, which provides information about stations carried by cable systems. Due to cost considerations in obtaining the Nielsen and Gracenote data for all stations distantly retransmitted by CSOs in every royalty year, for each royalty year, I selected a sample of stations from the universe of stations provided by CDC based on a stratified random sampling methodology.[18] I then requested Nielsen and Gracenote data for each year's sample of stations. I estimated distant viewing for compensable programs for each year for the 2010-2013 Cable Royalties using the data from the aforementioned sources. These data are described in further detail in the subsections below.

[17] Tribune Media Services merged with Gracenote, Inc. on June 12, 2014, as a division of Tribune Media Company. The division now operates under the Gracenote name.

1. Nielsen Data

28. Nielsen is a well-regarded and highly-used source of audience measurement information in the television industry. Prior decisions by the Judges and their predecessors have concluded that Nielsen data provides "relevant" and "reliable" estimates of viewing to programs retransmitted on distant signals.[19] I rely on Nielsen Local and Distant Viewing Household Data for 2010-2013 ("Nielsen Viewing Data").

29. The Nielsen Viewing Data are based on a random sample of households in the United States. The data are collected by electronic meters attached to television sets together with individual meters held by individual household members. Based upon the [18] Lists of station samples are contained in Appendix Table B. I implemented a random sampling methodology, stratified by number of distant subscribers of the stations.

[19] See, e.g., 78 Fed. Reg. at 64986 and 64996 (Oct. 30, 2013); 55 Fed. Reg. 5647 (Feb. 16, 1990); 1998-99 Cable Phase I CARP Report (Oct. 21, 2003), at 44; 1990-92 Cable Phase I CARP Report (May 31, 1996), at 84.

national data they collected, Nielsen performed custom analyses to estimate the level of viewing by cable-subscribing households to all television stations they received, respectively, for each fifteen-minute interval (quarter hour) of the day, each day for 2010 through 2013.[20] From their estimates of the total viewing, Nielsen extracts both the local and distant viewing for each station in my samples of stations for 2010 through 2013.

2. Gracenote Data

30. The Gracenote data is a compilation of information about each program airing on each station throughout each day. The compiled information includes when the program aired; the station the program aired on; whether the program was station-produced, local, network, or syndicated; the program title; the episode title, if applicable; and the type of program (movie, game show, etc.); and so on. As a part of my analysis, I excluded as non-compensable programs airing on WGN's local feed ("WGN") that were not simultaneously broadcast on WGN's national feed ("WGNA"). Also, I excluded all programs broadcasted on ABC, CBS, and NBC networks because network programs are non-compensable for present purposes.

3. CDC Data

31. The CDC data are information catalogued by CDC from statements of accounts ("SOAs") that CSOs filed with the Licensing Division of the Copyright Office semi-annually. These data include information regarding the distant signals carried, the number of subscribers receiving each distant signal, and the estimate of fees generated by each signal during years covered by this proceeding.[21]

32. Based on the CDC data, there were over 1,000 stations that were distantly retransmitted by CSOs each year from 2010 to 2013. Due to cost considerations in obtaining Nielsen and Gracenote data described above for all these stations, I implemented a stratified random sampling methodology to identify a sample of distantly retransmitted stations each year from 2010 to 2013.[22] Across the four samples there were 609 station-year combinations with 384 unique stations. Each year's random sample included both large and small stations in terms of the number of distant subscribers as well as fees generated. These random samples were given to Nielsen to provide viewing data for each quarter hour, and to Gracenote to provide programming information.

4. CRTC Program Logs

33. The CRTC requires stations broadcasting in Canada to submit monthly program logs ("CRTC Program Logs").[23] These CRTC Program Logs include information such as station call signs, the program title and actual start time and end time of each program transmitted by each Canadian station, and an indicator for the country of origin of each program. I understand that programming airing on Canadian stations that originated outside the United States are compensable in the Canadian Claimants category. Also, [21] See, Written Direct Testimony of Jonda Martin.

[22] A list of sampled stations is contained in Appendix C. I implemented a random sampling methodology, stratified by number of distant subscribers of the stations.

[23] See CRTC website for more information, http://www.crtc.gc.ca/.

syndicated programming and movies that aired on Canadian stations which originated from the United States are compensable as Program Suppliers programs.[24] I used these CRTC program logs to determine the country of origin of programs claimed by parties to this proceeding which aired on the Canadian stations.

D. Relative Market Value of Programming: Data Analysis

34. I combined and analyzed the various datasets described above to calculate the levels of volume and viewership of programming represented by MPAA and MC. These statistics demonstrate the extent to which compensable Program Suppliers programming is retransmitted in distant markets by CSOs and the extent to which this programming is viewed by subscribers on a distant basis. These statistics provide measures of the relative market value of each party's claimed programs.

1. Program Retransmissions and Volume Statistics

35. Table 1 below presents summary statistics comparing compensable programs represented by MPAA and MC in (1) the number of retransmissions of compensable programs, and (2) the volume, in minutes, of programming that aired on stations distantly retransmitted by CSOs. From 2010 to 2013, between 4.0 million and 6.5 million compensable MPAA-represented programs aired on stations retransmitted by CSOs. This programming consisted of between 158.6 million and 245.6 million retransmitted minutes of compensable programming.

36. In contrast, over the same years, between 43.5 thousand and 94.7 thousand compensable MC-represented programs aired on stations retransmitted by CSOs. This programming consisted of between 1.7 million and 5.5 million retransmitted minutes of compensable programming.

Table 1: Levels and Shares of Retransmissions and Volume by Royalty Year

Year	Claimant Category	Number of Retransmissions	Share of Number of Retransmissions	Minutes of Retransmissions	Share of Retransmitted Minutes
2010	MPAA	5,765,714	98.48%	220,417,590	98.19%
	MC	89,208	1.52%	4,061,831	1.81%
	Total	5,854,922	100.00%	224,479,421	100.00%
2011	MPAA	6,453,807	98.55%	245,535,531	97.83%
	MC	94,647	1.45%	5,433,610	2.17%
	Total	6,548,454	100.00%	250,969,141	100.00%
2012	MPAA	4,043,342	98.93%	158,642,489	98.91%
	MC	43,593	1.07%	1,755,034	1.09%
	Total	4,086,935	100.00%	160,397,523	100.00%
2013	MPAA	5,373,869	98.81%	224,250,265	98.62%
	MC	64,597	1.19%	3,137,485	1.38%
	Total	5,438,466	100.00%	227,387,750	100.00%

37. As described earlier, the relative minutes, or volume, of programming retransmitted provides an imperfect metric of the relative value of the groups of programs. The volume measure does not take into account what time of day the retransmission took place, the number of cable subscribers who had access to the distantly retransmitted broadcast, or the number of households who watched the show. Thus, the share of viewing minutes provides a superior measure of relative value.

2. Program Viewing Statistics

38. Due to the low frequency of distant viewing and the size of the sample Nielsen uses to measure total U.S. household viewing, there are many instances of no recorded distant viewing of compensable retransmitted programs in the Nielsen Viewing Data. However, it is possible to obtain reliable estimates of distant viewing for all retransmitted programs by relying on additional data.

39. To reliably estimate relative distant viewing minutes throughout the 2010-2013 Cable Royalty years, I applied multiple regression analysis techniques to all distantly retransmitted programs. For each year from 2010 to 2013, the regressions calculated the mathematical relationship between distant viewing for a program and (1) a measure of local ratings for the program, (2) the natural logarithm of the total number of distant subscribers of that station, (3) the time of day the program aired by quarter hour, and (4) the type of program aired. The regressions demonstrate that there is a positive and statistically significant relationship between local ratings and distant viewing.[25] The greater the number of people viewing a particular program on a per capita local basis, all else equal, the higher the level of distant viewing. The regressions also show that the total number of a station's distant subscribers, the time of day the program aired, and the type of program aired, each significantly affects distant viewing.

[25] Appendix C, Tables C-1 through C-8 provide results from the regressions. Due to the large difference between WGN and non-WGN stations in terms of the extent of non-compensable programming, the number of distant subscribers, and the level of distant viewing, I estimated separate regressions WGN and non-WGN stations each year from 2010-2013.

40. The regressions described above produced reliable measures of distant viewership for all programs carried by stations in the sample and retransmitted by CSOs for each quarter hour of every day, for each royalty year at issue in this proceeding.

41. I calculated each party's share of total distant viewing as the sum of estimated distant viewing of that party's programs divided by the sum of estimated distant viewing of all valid MPAA and MC retransmitted programming. Table 2 reports estimated distant viewing (in minutes) and estimated distant viewing share for each cable royalty year for the two parties. Appendix C, Table C-9 presents the 95% confidence intervals associated with each viewership share calculation.[26]

Table 2: Distant Viewing Minutes and Shares by Royalty Year

Year	Claimant Representative	Distant Viewing (000)	Share of Distant Viewing
2010	MPAA	3,322,320	99.37%
	MC	21,033	0.63%
	Total	3,343,353	100%
2011	MPAA	2,678,335	99.47%
	MC	14,355	0.53%
	Total	2,692,690	100%
2012	MPAA	2,122,657	99.45%
	MC	11,705	0.55%
	Total	2,134,362	100%
2013	MPAA	1,908,804	99.50%
	MC	9,525	0.50%
	Total	1,918,329	100%

As reported in the final column in Table 2, MPAA-represented programming accounted for 99.37%, 99.47%, 99.45%, and 99.50% of the total compensable Program Supplier programming over the years 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2013, respectively. MC-represented programming accounted for 0.63%, 0.53%, 0.55%, and 0.50% of the total compensable Program Supplier programming over the same years, respectively. These viewership shares for these parties correspond to reasonable cable royalty shares in each royalty year 2010-2013.

V. CONCLUSION: ROYALTY SHARE ALLOCATIONS

42. Based upon the economic theory of consumer behavior, my analysis indicated that relative program viewership provides a reasonable and reliable measure of the relative economic value of distantly retransmitted programing. All else equal, the higher the viewing of distantly retransmitted programming, the higher the value of that programming to consumers and logically to CSOs. Therefore, following this theory, to determine what I believe to be reasonable and reliable relative market values of the 2010-2013 Program Suppliers claimed programming, I analyzed data concerning program volume and program viewing patterns of a randomly selected set of stations each year from 2010 to 2013. Table 1 above reported each representative's level and share of volume of retransmissions from 2010-2013. Table 2 above reported each representative's distant viewing share, and therefore its share of the total 2010-2013 Cable Royalties for each royalty year.

DECLARATION OF JEFFREY S. GRAY, PH.D.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing testimony is true and correct, and of my personal knowledge.

Education & Background Summary

Ph.D., Economics, University of Pennsylvania
B.A., Economics (with honors) University of California Santa Cruz

Dr. Gray has over 20 years of experience in economic and statistical consulting, survey design, sampling methodologies, and complex database analytics. He is an authority on economic markets, statistical methods, and economic damages. His research has been published in some of the top peer-reviewed journals in the economics profession including The American Economic Review and the Journal of Human Resources. Dr. Gray has presented his findings before a variety of seminars at universities, meetings of professional societies and conferences on specialized topics in the United States and abroad. Dr. Gray has received recognition and financial support to pursue his research from the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the Research Board of the University of Illinois. Throughout his career Dr. Gray has served as referee for professional journals assessing the appropriate application of economics and statistics.

Dr. Gray has conducted studies for corporations, government agencies and law firms on a variety of economic and statistical issues. Dr. Gray has served as a testifying expert on behalf of both plaintiffs and defendants addressing class certification, liability and/or damages issues. He has provided written or oral expert testimony in state, federal, and international courts and presented analytical findings before the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Texas Commissioner of Insurance, the Government of Singapore, and the New York and Massachusetts State Offices of Attorney General.

In addition to leading the economic and statistical consulting practices at Huron Consulting Group and Deloitte Financial Advisory Services LLP, Dr. Gray has served on the staff of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and on the faculty of the University of Illinois where he taught graduate and undergraduate courses covering consumer demand analysis, labor economics, and statistics. He earned a Ph.D. in economics from the University of Pennsylvania.

DIRECT TESTIMONY OF JONDA K. MARTIN

I. BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

My name is Jonda K. Martin. I am the President of Cable Data Corporation ("CDC"), which is located in Mount Airy, Maryland. In my more than 25 years at CDC, I have been actively involved in all aspects of the company, including research, data entry, report generation, and administration. I received a Bachelor of Science/Business Administration degree from American University in Washington, D.C., with concentrations in international business and management of information systems. I also received an MBA from University of Maryland. I have previously testified before the Copyright Arbitration Royalty Panel ("CARP") regarding CDC's operations in connection with the CARP's distribution of 1998 and 1999 cable compulsory license royalties, and before the Copyright Royalty Judges ("Judges") in connection with Phase I and Phase II proceedings regarding the distribution of the 2000-2003 cable royalty funds, a Phase I proceeding regarding the distribution of the 2004 and 2005 cable royalty funds, and a Phase II proceeding regarding the 2004-2009 cable and 1999-2009 satellite royalty funds. I also submitted testimony in the Allocation Phase of this proceeding.

II. PURPOSE OF TESTIMONY

The purpose of my testimony is to provide the Judges with an overview of CDC's operations and describe its data collection process and methodologies in relevant detail. I will describe the carriage data that CDC supplied to the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. ("MPAA") in connection with this proceeding, which I understand were utilized by Dr. Jeffrey S. Gray in his sample selection and analyses. I will also describe the local county analysis that CDC performed for MPAA in connection with this proceeding, which I understand was provided to Nielsen.

III. CABLE DATA CORPORATION

CDC was established in 1979 to collect and analyze information on Statements of Account ("SOAs") that cable systems file with the Licensing Division of the Copyright Office ("Licensing Division"). CDC makes the collected information available to users by purchase, either on an as needed basis or by subscription. CDC is the only company providing such a service. Numerous parties involved in the cable and satellite industries rely on data collected by CDC. This is particularly true for parties involved in copyright compulsory license proceedings. As a result, CDC data have been presented over the years to the Copyright Royalty Tribunal, the CARP, and the Judges in virtually all of the cable and satellite copyright royalty distribution proceedings and rate adjustment proceedings. In this section of my testimony, I will provide an overview of CDC's operations and its data collection methodologies.

Data collection is an integral part of CDC's operations. CDC has two full-time employees who spend the vast majority of each work day on-location in the Licensing Division of the Copyright Office. Those employees record data and other information from each publicly-available, filed SOA into our online database via laptop computers.[1]

[1] Once SOAs are filed at the Copyright Office they are subject to review by the Licensing Division before they are made available for public inspection. The Licensing Division's initial review typically causes a several month delay between the date the SOAs are filed with the Office and the date the filings are available for CDC's on-site employees to access.

CDC produces standard reports and customized reports which summarize the SOA data. To keep CDC data as consistent as possible with the SOAs on file with the Licensing Division, CDC performs regular system updates to account for modifications made to a system's filing, for reasons such as additional royalty payments and refunds issued by the Licensing Division.

After the SOA data is entered in CDC's computer system, CDC produces both standardized and customized reports of aggregated cable system data for its clients. Both CDC's standardized and customized reports are derived from the same database and rely on the same CDC data protocols.

IV. CDC CARRIAGE DATA PROVIDED TO MPAA IN CONNECTION WITH THEIR NIELSEN STUDIES

CDC provided MPAA with a set of customized data reports for each of the 2010-2013 cable royalty years. For each royalty year, these data reports listed all commercial and non-commercial broadcast stations carried as full-time distant signals by cable systems, the number of distant subscribers to which each station was available, and CDC's calculation of the distant fees generated by that station. I understand that Dr. Jeffrey Gray utilized these data to select the sample stations for each royalty year at issue in this proceeding for MPAA's Nielsen distant viewing studies. I also understand that Dr. Gray utilized these CDC data in his economic analysis.

VI. CDC'S LOCAL COUNTY ANALYSIS

After Dr. Gray selected sample stations for each of the 2010-2013 cable royalty years, MPAA's counsel sent the lists of Dr. Gray's sample stations to CDC. CDC then analyzed each of these stations in order to determine which counties fell within the station's local service area. We refer to this exercise as local county analysis.

CDC based identification of the counties local to each of the 2010-2013 sample stations on the FCC signal carriage rules.[2] The process CDC followed was different for commercial stations, noncommercial educational stations, and Canadian stations.[3] I explain how CDC conducted its local county analysis for commercial and Canadian stations below. In addition, Appendix A to my testimony provides illustrations of how the local county analysis was performed for these stations for 2010-2013.

A. Local County Analysis Of Commercial Stations

For our local county analysis of commercial stations, CDC employed the following general steps: first, we identified the counties that constituted each station's Designated Market Area ("DMA"). All such counties are considered local for that station. Second, we identified the counties in which each station was deemed "significantly viewed" per the FCC. All such counties are considered local for that station pursuant to the FCC's signal carriage rules. Lastly, we looked at other factors that would qualify a county as local to the station in question.

[2] The signal carriage rules, now rescinded, were found at Sections 76.57 through 76.63 of the regulations of the FCC. 47 C.F.R. §§ 76.57-76.63 (1976).

[3] I understand that noncommercial educational stations are not relevant for the Distribution Phase of this proceeding.

B. Local County Analysis Of Canadian Stations

CDC used multiple criteria to identify local counties for the Canadian stations in the sample. Some Canadian stations are significantly viewed (SV) in U.S. counties; all such counties were designated as local to the station. Where a station's Grade B included counties located outside all television markets, those counties were designated as local.

Once CDC completed the local county analysis, I sent the results MPAA's counsel. I understand that the results of CDC's local county analysis were provided to Nielsen.

Thank you for the opportunity to present this information in this proceeding. I hope that it will assist you in your deliberations.

DECLARATION OF JONDA K. MARTIN

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing testimony is true and correct, and of my personal knowledge.

APPENDIX A

I. LOCAL COUNTY ANALYSIS OF COMMERCIAL STATIONS

A. Local County Analysis Illustration For Commercial Station WKBD, Channel 50, Licensed To Detroit, Michigan

Described below are the steps CDC employed for the county analysis of commercial stations. The steps consist principally of Designated Market Area ("DMA") analysis, significantly viewed ("SV") analysis, 35-mile zone analysis, and the Grade B Contour analysis. I selected for the purpose of illustration, commercial station WKBD, channel 50, licensed to Detroit. The analysis applied to WKBD is repeated for all of the commercial stations in each sample for which CDC conducted a county analysis.

1. DMA Analysis

Nielsen groups counties by DMAs.[1] Each DMA consists of a group of counties forming an exclusive geographic area in which Nielsen has determined that the home market television stations hold a dominance of viewing. Although a few counties are split between DMAs, as a rule each county is assigned to one and only one DMA.

Attachment 1 is a page with the Detroit market (among others) from Nielsen's 2010 DMA report titled "U.S. TV Household Estimates" ("the DMA book"), published September 2009, which shows all DMAs and the counties associated with each. This page provides a good example of how DMAs are used to identify local cable system carriage for station WKBD. Again, the objective in determining the counties where a station is local is to enable Nielsen to exclude cable viewing from those counties, with the result that only distant viewing for WKBD will be captured.

The Detroit DMA market consists of nine Michigan counties:

Lapeer	Sanilac
Livingston	St. Clair
Macomb	Washtenaw
Monroe	Wayne
Oakland

Because WKBD is licensed to Detroit, a cable system serving communities in any of these nine counties must carry WKBD to its subscribers as a local signal. CDC concluded that these nine counties were within WKBD's local service area.

2. Significantly Viewed Analysis

Besides the DMA criterion, stations are considered local in counties and/or communities in which the Federal Communications Commission ("FCC") has deemed the station is "significantly viewed" (SV) meaning the station reaches certain FCC-defined viewing thresholds within the county or community. Because a cable system serving County X must carry stations that are significantly viewed in County X (or Community X), such carriage is considered local.

[1] The definition of "local service area" in Section 111(f) and 47 C.F.R. § 76.55(e)(2) defines a station's market as its Nielsen DMA.

Attachment 2 lists selected counties in Michigan and Ohio and the TV stations significantly viewed in each as reported on the FCC's website: https://transition.fcc.gov/mb/significantviewedstations041916.pdf.

In the case of WKBD, four counties outside the DMA are considered SV:

Genesee, MI	Lucas, OH
Lenawee, MI	Wood, OH

If a cable system serves communities located in these SV counties, that system must carry WKBD as a local signal and consequently, those SV counties were considered local to WKBD.

B. Other Criteria For Determining Whether a Station Is Local

Besides the DMA and SV criteria, which identify the vast majority of local counties, CDC also examined other criteria to see if there are any additional counties that would be considered local. These criteria include the station's 35-Mile Specified Zone and Grade B Contour.

1. 35-Mile Specified Zone

For all television markets, major and smaller, a cable system's carriage of a TV station to subscribers located inside the station's 35 mile specified zone means the station is local to those subscribers.

A copy of the 35-Mile Specified Zone for Detroit is shown as Attachment 3. FCC rules require a cable system serving communities located within that specified zone to carry WKBD as a local signal. Review of the zone indicated that the counties within the specified zone had already been classified as local due to the SV/DMA criteria.

2. The Grade B Contour

Another criterion, in some situations, is the Grade B contour. The contour is an irregular and oddly-shaped circle surrounding the TV station's transmitter site. The Grade B is a measure of estimated signal strength based on the station's antenna size, power, and direction. The Grade B, in other words, is a measure of how clear a picture can be expected to be on a person's television set.

The Grade B contour can be used as a criterion in two circumstances relevant to the local county analysis CDC performed for 2010-2013. The first circumstance has to do with stations licensed to smaller markets. If a cable system serves communities located in a smaller market, (i.e., located within the 35-mile zone of such a market), the system can carry as local any station from another smaller market whose Grade B encompasses the communities served by the system. The second circumstance relates to systems serving communities located outside all television markets. In the case of a system serving such an area, the system may carry as local all stations whose Grade Bs encompass the communities served by the cable system. In both circumstances, if the station is local per the Grade B criterion, the Form 3 cable operator does not have to account for the station in its royalty calculation.

Attachment 3 further shows the Grade B contour of WKBD that CDC downloaded from the FCC's website shaded in yellow: https://www.fcc.gov/media/television/tv-service-contour-data-points.

Cable systems serving communities that fall "outside all (television) markets" must carry as a local signal any station whose Grade B encompasses the communities of the system. To identify any such counties, CDC looked to see if there were any additional counties within WKBD's Grade B contour that were outside all markets and not already classified local by a previous standard. That review indicated that the counties within the Grade B contour had either already been classified as local due to the SV/DMA criteria or were not outside all markets.

Once CDC identified all the local counties for WKBD, I provided those counties to Program Suppliers' counsel. WKBD's local counties were the nine counties in the Detroit DMA, plus the four SV counties, for a total of 13 counties in which WKBD was a local signal.

C. County Analysis For "Partially-Local" Stations

In the course of CDC's analyses, we may find that an entire county is neither wholly distant nor wholly local. An example would be a county that is neither SV nor DMA for a station, but which falls partially within the 35-mile zone of the station's market. Another example might be a county located outside all television markets and partially covered by a station's Grade B. In these few cases, CDC relies on the location of a majority of the county's population to designate the county as local or distant. Because the entire county must be classified as either local or distant for purposes of the Nielsen Studies, it is reasonable to assume that viewing will track with population. For example, are more people (i.e., viewers) located inside the 35-mile zone (or Grade B) or outside? If, in our example, most of the population is within the station's Grade B contour, we consider the county local. CDC relies on mapping, distance calculations and census data to measure coverage of a county in relation to the Grade B (or 35-mile zone).

II. LOCAL COUNTY ANALYSIS FOR CANADIAN STATIONS

A. Local County Analysis Illustration For Canadian Station CFTO, Channel 9, Licensed To Toronto, Canada

As set forth in my testimony, we employed multiple criteria to identify local counties for the Canadian stations in the sample. Where a Canadian station is SV in U.S. counties, all such counties were designated as local to the station. Where a Canadian station's Grade B included counties located outside all television markets, those counties were designated as local.

Described below are the steps CDC employed for the county analysis of Canadian station, CFTO, channel 9, licensed to Toronto, Canada. The analysis applied to CFTO is repeated for all of the Canadian stations in each sample for which CDC conducted a county analysis.

CFTO is significantly viewed (SV) in Niagara County, NY, so I designated that county as local for CFTO. Because CFTO is SV in some communities located in Erie County, NY, I analyzed the county population as described above for KCTS to determine that CFTO was SV to only 39.1% of the Erie County population, so I did not designate Erie County, NY as a local county for station CFTO.
